Several Prisoners at the County Jail Make Trouble.

IN SOLITARY CONFINEMENT.

Dick Smith and Fred Wheeler in for Petty Larceny Given the Dark Cell.

Ever since a change of administration was made at the county jail and Jailer Dielrow was succeeded by Jailer Burdge, a brother of the sheriff, some of the prisoners and especially those in the upper corridor where the colored captives are confined, have been taking every advantage of the change by being noisy and disorderly.

Last night, however, the boys were especially bad and disorderly. They yelled and fought and swore. Dick Smith, Fred Miller, Willie Wheeler and Ed McGruder were the worst among them.

The boys refused to be put there and resisted by force. Assistant Jailer Tom Owens, the guard of the rack-ride and several trustees finally carried the young offenders into the basement, but the trip over the short distance required twenty minutes.

IS THIS RED TAPE?

Matron Thorpe Comments on Methods of the Associated Charities.

She:—A week, starved looking man came in the other day. "I have been sick three weeks," he said, "I have a room on Leath street. When I got better my money was so near gone I allowed myself to go to bed. Now it is all gone. I can't get up. Have nothing to eat, my coat is soiled, I have no shoes, no hat, no shoes, I sent him to Mr. Eldridge. He returned, saying they would not give anything until the visiting committee had reported him. I knew they could not probably reach him for three weeks. His office was then closed, and having no family, he was not likely to get help there."

I said: "I will give you something for your supper," and began putting up bread, potatoes, etc. "I have no fire; no way to cook it," he said. So I set him a supper on my own table. He said a man who came in had made up his mind there was no charity or humanity any more and he might as well cut his throat as anything else. He is a professional cook, thrown out of work by colored and foreign help.

AND THE CITY IS THE VICTIM

While the Police Force and the Council Keep Up the War.

The entire police department of Topeka from the board of police commissioners to the newest special policeman who hasn't learned to hold his club right, are very mad at the city council for its action Monday night in cutting down their payroll.

It isn't so much the financial part of it they hate, but the way they did it, and the principle on which they are determined upon revenge, and they intend to make their payroll as large as it can be legally made under the restriction named by law. The commissioners held a meeting last evening and decided to make North Topeka a separate police district, thus employing an additional captain, sergeant, jailer and patrol driver, and making another patrol wagon and team necessary as well as rent. They adopted this resolution:

"Resolved, That the second, third, fourth and fifth wards of the city of Topeka be and are hereby constituted police districts No. 1, of the city of Topeka, with headquarters at the city prison; and that the first ward of the city of Topeka is hereby constituted police district No. 2, of the city of Topeka, with headquarters to be hereafter determined."

SACKETT IS OUT

Temporarily Looking for Boardman—More Officers Attar Aim.

A. R. Sackett, the winner of Miss Frances Davenport's affection and available cash is one of the country jailers afternoon in company with Assistant Jailer Tom Owens trying to raise $1,000 among his friends, the amount of his bond to appear before Justice Furry next Saturday morning.

Miss Davenport remains at the home of George W. Crane, willing to go wherever her friends will take her. She will remain in Topeka several days longer.

Four members of the Chicago detective force will arrive in town this evening to identify Sackett if possible as an embezzler of $500 from a Chicago bicycle house, whom they have been after several months. Sackett appears to be a young man very much in demand, especially among officers of the law, and it is generally supposed he can hardly resist them all. He seems destined to end his checkered career in stripes, and if the accounts generally given are true, he richly deserves his fate.

MARRIED IN 1866.

Domestic Drama Begun Quarter of a Century Ago Ends in Divorce.

Elizabeth Cooney applied in the district court today for a divorce and attorney from Thomas Cooney, to whom she was married in New York in 1866. She says that three years her husband has "scolded, threatened, struck and beaten her," and named several instances, the instrument generally used being a cane. She says that last October she was called to St. Mary's, where her oldest son was sick with fever. She nursed the boy several weeks and when she returned her husband refused to let her into the house. Four boys and one daughter have been born to them. She says, Mr. Cooney, who is a farmer, is well fixed in worldly goods. T. H. Baine is her attorney, and Edwin Knowles is on the bond for her costs.

Bertha Alice Ward also petitioned for a divorce today from Robert T. Ward, alleging abandonment. Gled, Ware & Gled are her lawyers.

TWO LITTLE GIRLS IN BLUE

They Are Bonded Back and Forth Between Armourdale and Topeka.

"Two little girls in blue" have come to town and gone away again. They were little girls, one five and the other seven years old, who were found at the Rock Island depot last evening by Officer Arterbridge. The little girls, who wore shabby blue skirts, said they had "bummed" their way from Armourdale, and said further that their father and mother were dead. The police decided that the authorities there had sent them to Topeka to get rid of them, so Fair Commissioner Hale got them transportation back to Armourdale again.

She Raised Him, but Now He Has to Go to the Reform School.

He was arrested last night by Officer Flecken, at the request of the boy's mother, who lives on Topeka avenue, near the fair grounds.

HAD ROOMS TO LET. THE EMPORIA CONVENTION

A Little Man Who Allowed the Newsboys to Bother Him.

This is about a Louisville man whom little things bother until he is not sure of his name, age or politics. If the fret and worry over trifles were taken out of his life, he would be very happy for a real misfortune does not disturb him at all. One of the small things which trouble completely out of joint his peace of mind, is the way newsboys hang after him. He has the papers left at his home, but statements to this effect to the newsboys have been treated with derision. The other day in order not to be pelted at any more, he waited until a great number of newsboys had gathered on the Green street side of the Journal building. Then he walked solemnly over to where they were standing and said:

"Young gentlemen, will you please be so kind as to examine my features very closely. No, I am not pretty, but I am very earnest in this request. Don't ever try to sell me a paper. I never buy a newspaper on the streets. Now, will you please be so kind as to remember this, for I might do something violent. Good day, young gentlemen." As the man walked away one of the newsboys said:

"He's got rooms to rent in his upper story."

"Now," said the hero of this incident to a friend yesterday, "what in the world could that boy have meant by that? I am not a real estate owner and have no rooms to let."

Cinnamon and Grip.

An English clergyman had had the grip four times, and on each occasion he has cured himself in 48 hours. He therefore wishes publicity to be given to the following cure: A frequent use of cinnamon freshly grated, had a teaspoonful for dose, in a little warm milk, together with a plentiful supply of oranges, or marmalade when oranges are unavailable, and some hours after, the head being clear and the temperature having diminished, a dose of quinine, three grains, repeated twice a day in orange juice or lime juice the most pleasant way of taking it until convalescence. "When I notice in my nose the unmistakable smell of grip, I just chew a bit of cinnamon," says the doctor, "and I have no attack, while others are attacked."—New York Advertiser.
